DOG PREVENTS THEFT

Barking of Animal Causes Owner to Investigate and Thieves Ran Away

HORSE THIEVES AT WORK

Robbers Make Unsuccessful Attempt to Steal Horse From Charles Wetzel, a Waukegan Livery Man

What is believed to have been another daring attempt at horse stealing occurred last Saturday night at Charles Wetzel's on Washington street Waukegan. Only the watchfulness of a dog prevented the robbery.

Mr. Wetzel had been down town and had returned home about eleven o'clock. He keeps his horse in an enclosure back of his home and after unhooking the horse he had been driving he turned it in with six other horses which belong to the Wetzel Brothers, livery.

He started for the house and as he reached it was attracted by the sound of his dog's barking in the vicinity of the inclosure where the horses are kept.

As he neared it he met a man who was walking quite fast. At the time he thought nothing of this but when he arrived near the inclosure he found that his buggy had been turned completely around and became convinced that an attempt had been made to steal one, perhaps more horses, but the thief had been chased away by the dog's barking.

After having scoured every bit of the country in the vicinity and beyond Milwaukee in the hopes of discovering the thief who drove away with the fine team of horses belonging to the Courson Brothers' stables of Waukegan, Police Chiefs Connolly and Tyrell with one of the Courson brothers were obliged to return home empty handed, at an hour early Sunday morning.

A report from Milwaukee stating that a team answering the description of the local team had been seen west of that city the night before, caused Mr. Courson and the Waukegan police to charter an automobile and make a quick run to that city. They spent all day in that vicinity but were able to get no trace of the missing team.

The fact that several horses have been stolen in the county during the past few weeks leads to the belief that an organized gang is at work here. As yet the reward of $1000 offered by the county has no effect in locating any members of the gang.

MYSTERIOUS CONFLAGRATION DESTROYS BARN

Monday morning at about eight o'clock a fire was discovered in the barn on the Brook farm, east of town, which at the present time is occupied by Alex Smith and family.

The cause of the fire is unknown although many believe it to have been caused by the heating of new alfalfa hay that had been in the barn about a week. The flames were first discovered by Mr. Drom, a near neighbor, who gave the alarm at once, but on account of the extremely dry condition of the building the fire gained headway so rapidly that it was an utter impossibility to even liberate the horses.

At the time of the fire the barn contained a team of work horses, a double harness, nearly a car load of baled hay, four loads of alfalfa, and a number of small articles, all of which was destroyed.

The barn and adjoining shed which was also destroyed was valued at $1000 and was covered with an insurance of $450. There was no insurance on the contents.

The team was valued at $150 and during the day the sum of $105 was raised among the people of the community to help Mr. Smith replace his loss.

FORMER RESIDENT DEAD

Minerva A. Bingham Dies at Her Home in Chicago, June 18

The following article which has been submitted to us for publication will, no doubt, be of interest to our readers among the older class, many of whom were personal friends of the deceased:

Minerva A. Bingham died at her residence 318 North Kedzie avenue, Chicago, on June 18, 1910. She was born in Franklin county, N. Y., Feb. 24, 1829. At the age of five years she moved with her parents, Jacob Drom and wife, to La Porte, Ind., going overland in their own conveyance as the early settlers did in those days.

In 1843 her parents moved from La Porte, Ind., to this place taking up land which is now known as the Will Tiffany farm. Shortly after their arrival a meeting was held among the neighbors to organize a church, which was done, and they were among the charter members. Mr. Eldridge Benham giving the site on which the old church still stands at Benham's corners.

Minerva A. Drom was married to Wallace Bingham at Salem, Wis., July 20, 1852, from which union was born Virginia F. Bingham, who still survives her. In 1864 they moved to Chicago making it their home until the present time. Two years ago her husband was called home.

One of the serious events of Mrs. Bingham's life occurred in the latter part of December, 1870, on her return home from a visit in the east. She met with an accident in the Astorville disaster, in which she lost a limb below the knee. She never entirely recovered from this accident but has been a constant sufferer from it ever since.

She was a woman of great strength of character and Christian fortitude, uncomplaining and cheerful under difficulties, always abounding in the faith of her Lord. She will be greatly missed by her relatives and friends.

The remains were taken to Trevor on Monday of last week and the funeral services were held in the same church where she worshiped in her early life. The burial was in the Liberty cemetery. The deceased was an aunt of Wallace and Dwight Drom of this place.

ESCAPED INMATE OF INSANE ASYLUM CAPTURED HERE

One of our farmers seem to be having an experience with farm help, such as does not happen every day, at the present busy time. On Sunday last while gone with his milk, and also doing a little forenoon visiting, he had no less than 4 men apply for a position as farm help. One had to be at Antioch at a certain time during the forenoon so would not wait at the house, but after securing a description of the former and his team journeyed on, later finding the former, who on seeing a smart, able bodied man brought him home, not yet making a hair the former invited the man to stay and partake of dinner with the family, later on as the man seemed to thoroughly understand farming and farm machinery, a hire out agreement was made, at the present run of wages, with the proviso of working a month at first, if well suited with the place, then he wished to hire by the year, as long as each suited the other. He stayed three and one-half days, was found steady, capable and understood perfectly every piece of work or machinery which he handled; in fact was found wanting in nothing, except a home, which he said he had not. Imagine the farmer's surprise to find an officer come to his home, declare this man was insane, handcuffed him and took him away.

This man was traced to this place through having communicated with his wife and now this certain farmer is wondering when he gets a good man, the asylum authorities should want him when so many worthless farm hands go free.

DATES FOR FILING OF PETITIONS

July 18 First Date on Which to File Petitions for the Coming Primaries

NEW LAW IN EFFECT JULY 1

Important Dates for Political Aspirants in Review of Primary Law—Has Vastly Significant New Features

July 18—First day for candidates at primaries to file petitions with the county clerk or secretary of state.

August 13—Last day of senatorial committee to decide how many candidates for state representatives shall be nominated in their respective districts.

August 16—Last day for candidates to file petitions with county clerks or secretary of state.

August 21—Last day for unregistered voters otherwise qualified to vote at the primaries to file affidavits with the board of election commissioners.

Sept. 3—Last day for candidates to file withdrawals with the county clerk.

Sept. 15—Primary election.

Sept. 22—Congressional conventions.

Oct. 3—First registration day for November election.

Oct. 15—Last day for the senatorial and state central committees elected at primaries to meet and organize.

Oct. 28—Second and last registration day.

Nov. 8—General election for county, congressional and state officers.

Every party in the state which polled 2 per cent of the gross vote cast at the last general election is compelled to hold a primary under the new law, of which the above is a digest, if it is desired to have a ticket at the next coming election, all parties to hold the primaries on the same day under the authority of and control of the election officers. In 1911 and succeeding years the nomination of candidates for the places to be filled at the coming November elections must be made on the second Tuesday of April. Petitions for state officers must be signed by not less than 1,000 or more than 2,000 voters and for congressional or judicial places the percentage must be one-half of one per cent of the voters within the district within which the candidate seeks office.

Attorney General Stead has made a ruling on some of the other requirements for the primaries and among them he states that for all county officers, or greater, petitions must be filed not more than sixty days nor less than thirty days prior to the primary. The primary ballots are described and must be of different color for each of the parties.

The new law also requires registration and where there is a board of election commissioners voters who are not registered or who will be legal voters may register with the commissioners.

While it is almost a month before any of the candidates can file their petitions, it is said that some of the aspirants for office have the papers out now and these are being signed up and will be ready for presentations to the proper officers as the time of filing fixes the plates on the primary ballot, these going in rotation according to the filing of the papers.

RESCUED FROM BURNING MOTOR BOAT

Spectacular and thrilling was the rescue from a burning motor boat of Earl A. Purdy of Highland Park at Fox Lake Monday afternoon.

Purdy was out in his motor boat the Pappoose, the solo occupant, when the boat took fire and Purdy began to shout for help. Then began desperate race by motor and sail boats to the scene of the fire, as the occupants of the various boats heard the shouts and A. C. Bourn, the owner of a resort, was the first to reach the spot.

He came to the rescue just as the despairing Purdy was standing on the prow ready for the leap into the lake and while the flames were licking up the craft all about him.

Purdy was taken off the boat and removed to the Bourns resort where he was found to be uninjured. The Pappoose was burned to the water edge and is a wreck.

The Secretary's Perquisite. "The hour is over, but I have the minutes left," said the secretary, as he left the meeting.—Cornell Widow.

NEW ROAD ASSURED

Fact that Over $40,000 Has Been Raised for Palatine-Wauconda Line

TWO WOMEN TAKE $10,000

The Generous Subscriptions of Stock Spells Success and Means Construction of Electric Line

"There seems to be no question but the electric railroad will be built from Palatine to Lake Zurich, and Wauconda. We will start surveys at once and the road is a sure thing," said J. K. Orvis, attorney representing the promoters of the new line.

Continuing Mr. Orvis explaining that the promoters had raised $40,200 in Wauconda and Lake Zurich. At the Wauconda meeting $24,000 was subscribed, Wauconda people as well as Waukegan and a few Palatine people having subscribed the amount, or about $16,200 at the meeting, the other $10,000 being raised later.

It is explained that the Palatine folks will raise as much as the other towns combined for word has been given out that they will raise about $40,000 at the meeting. It is said it is their desire to equal the other two towns. The latter part of the week a meeting is to be held at Lake's Corners and at Quentins Corners.

Mr. Orvis states that the promoters have, besides the subscriptions, much free right of way and therefore things have shaped themselves so there is no question that the road will be built and that work may start before long.

While he would not say where it was coming from, Mr. Orvis believed that by Saturday night the promoters will have subscriptions aggregating $45,000 or $50,000 more than they started out to raise. If this is done it will permit the extension of the road farther north than was planned now, and insures the more rapid extension of the line to Fox Lake and the lake region.

At the Palatine meeting Mrs. Emil Ficke and Mrs. Peyton took stock amounting to $10,000.

At least $80,000 of the $100,000 needed to build the road will be raised this week, for there are men who wish to subscribe but have not done so yet.

The Palatine meeting was the largest and most productive of results of the three meetings thus far held.

There now seems to be nothing in the way to prevent the consummation of plans for building the road and the promoters are most encouraged.

A PRETTY JUNE WEDDING

Miss Laura Williams and Mr. Wm. Dupre Married Wednesday.

Wednesday forenoon, June 29, at the hour of eleven thirty, Miss Laura Williams was united in marriage to Mr. William Dupre, at St. Peter's church at this place, Rev. Father Lauremann of Wilmette, first cousin of the groom, performing the impressive ceremony that made them man and wife with Rev. Father Lynch assisting.

The bride was attired in a gown of white enveloped in the misty folds of the wedding veil and carried a shower bouquet of brides roses, and was attended by her sister Miss Ruth Williams as bridesmaid, who wore a gown of white over cream and also carried a bouquet of white. The groom and Mr. Paul Tubman of Evanston who acted as best man were attired in the conventional black.

After the ceremony at the church a reception and a wedding dinner was held at the home of the bride's parents and was attended by about forty relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Williams and is one of the most popular young ladies of the village, having lived here all her life and always taking an active part in the social affairs of the town.

The groom is a prominent young man who has made his home at this place for some time and both have a large circle of friends who wish them a long and happy voyage upon the matrimonial sea.

About five o'clock the happy couple left for a short wedding trip making a hasty get-away via auto, but not until their plans were ferreted out and they had been heartily showered with rice and the machine had been properly decorated for the occasion by their friends who used a liberal supply of old shoes, tin cans, miscellaneous bundles, and numerous white drapes for ornaments.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Dupre will take up their residence in the new home on North Main street, which he has built in readiness to receive his bride.

The bride was the recipient of many useful and beautiful presents.

Guests from out or town who attended the wedding were: Mr. Edwin O. Recter, of Columbus, Neb.; Mrs. C. H. Munson, of Sharon, Wis.; Dr. and Mrs. Williams of Dexter, Kansas; Rev. Father Lauremann, of Wilmette, Ill.; Mrs. Laueermann, and the Misses Mary and Anna Dupre of Evanston, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Modoff and Lucile and Carl Modoff of Aurora, Ill.; Mr. Paul Tubman, of Evanston; Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Anderson and the Misses Elsie and Ruth Williams of Chicago.

SIVER FAMILY HOLD REUNION IN WAUKEGAN

Mince-pie, made from mince-meat that had been prepared 11 years ago by Mrs. Isaac Siver, now deceased, was eaten at the family reunion of the Siver family, held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Siver corner of Center and Popular streets Waukegan.

Fifty-eight members of the family were in attendance. They came from the following cities and towns: Waukegan, Kenosha, Wis., Russell, Hebron, Racine, Wis., and Sheboygan, Wis. The day was spent in renewing acquaintances and in relating reminiscences. Bounteous refreshments were served. The Siver family has made a practice of holding these family reunions each year.

The mince-pie incident was one of the most interesting of the day. The aged Mrs. Siver always had possessed a reputation for making excellent mince-pie. It was a treat in itself for any of her relatives to call on her and have a piece of her inimitable pie.

The great satisfaction of those present may be imagined when it was announced that the pie that was placed on the table had been made from mince-meat she made 11 years ago one year before she died.

JAMES DOWIE FAKIR

Judge Barnes, Overseers Lewis and Voliva and Others Join in Denouncement

DOWIE SAYS HE IS A KING

Says He Has Deeds to ell of Zion City, the Michigan Home, the South Sea Islands and Other Realty—Coming to Zion

That James Dowie, reputed brother of the late John Alexander Dowie and reported claimant to the Zion estates by deeds which he claims Dowie gave him, is an imposter and merely a masquerader seeking notoriety is the statement Wednesday at Zion City.

Judge V. V. Barnes, Overseer John Lewis and Overseer Voliva join in making the statement and go farther to the extent of asserting that Dowie never had a brother.

Dowie is known to have had several half brothers, but none by the name of James.

Overseer John A. Lewis charged that James Dowie is a fraud and a fakir and concocted the story of being heir to the Zion estates out of whole cloth.

He claims to have received reports from him from Los Angeles and says that he is a divine healing fakir. Judge V. V. Barnes stated that it is known that Dowie had no brothers but several half brothers. He does not believe that this man is one of the half brothers.

Attired in his silken robes as bishop of the Christian Catholic church, his grizzled black hair and beard untrimmed, James Dowie, brother of the late "Dr." Dowie of Zion City, sat in an oak kitchen chair while he told of the efforts he would make to recover Zion City and other property once owned by his brother, but now possessed by Voliva.

He claims to be Moses. His prime minister, Premier, chief of entourage, companion and royal secretary, who claims to be the Messiah returned to earth, has taken the name of Bishop Shrader.

Dowie said "I am the king of the Freeland Islands, once a possession of John Alexander Dowie, in the South Pacific. These islands are a part of the Fiji group and are rich in mineral, particularly gold. It was from them that my brother, the founder of Zion City, procured his wealth to build the Illinois city.

"When the old man," the bishop referred to John Alexander as the "Old Man"—"died he left his wife and son $1 each, but the deeds to all his possessions he gave to me, his only brother. These deeds will cover the Zion City, the Michigan home, the South Sea Islands, and all other realty, which are now my property."

"We will stay in St. Paul a week or so, offering healing to the sick and blind, making absolutely no charge in any way. We will then go to Milwaukee and thence on to Zion City to attempt to wrest control from Voliva."

Secretary Shrader claims that King Dowie has deeds to all of Zion City and that the present possessors hold only leases. He says no effort has been made to legally contest other claims, but that upon the expiration of the leases Dowie will attempt to secure his rights.

SYNOPSIS.

Andy Meelen, aged millionaire miner, is dying and orders a will drawn up, leaving all his property to the son of a sister of whom he has heard nothing for years, and whose married name he does not know. Meelen was married years before, but left his wife after a quarrel in which he struck her. He learned later that she and their daughter were dead. The scene shifts to New York, introducing Wilfrid Stennis, who is telling his fiancée, Eunice Trevecca, what he would do if he were the possessor of wealth. In the law office of Carboy, Passavant & Cozine, attorneys for the estate of Meelen, Roger Hews reports the result of his search for heirs of Meelen. He conceals the fact that he has discovered that Meelen's daughter is living. Wilfrid Stennis replies to an answer for information concerning his dead mother, Martha Meelen, and is told that he is the heir to Andy Meelen's millions. He wants to marry Eunice at once, but she resolutely demurs. He meets Clara Passavant, frivolous daughter of his attorney. Eunice becomes jealous of Wilfrid's attentions to Clara. He builds a yacht and starts on a trip abroad, the Passavants being included in the party.

CHAPTER VI.

When Roger Hews was dispatched to Pennsylvania as the confidential agent of Carboy, Passavant & Cozine to verify the strange story told by Andrew Meelen on his death-bed he unearthed a far more curious and complicated series of episodes, so unusual and unexpected as to suggest to his fertile and not over-scrupulous mind a plot by which the knowledge thus gained might be turned to his own advantage in several ways. Briefly told, this is what he discovered after much painstaking piecing together of fact and inference:

When Minna Meelen found herself, as she supposed, deserted by her husband so soon after their marriage, unable to bear the taunts and gibes of the village women, she left the outskirts of Hazleton, then little more than a hamlet, and tramped across the mountains to Nanticoke. Here, being a complete stranger, she resumed her maiden name of Minna Tod, passing herself off as a widow, and making a living by sewing and darning clothes. Here a daughter was born to her. A year and more had elapsed since leaving Hazleton, when seemingly authentic tidings reached her that her husband, Andrew Meelen, had been killed in battle. So to her erstwhile fiction became a cruel and bitter fact.

Believing herself a free woman, and being still young and handsome, her scolding tongue and fiery temper somewhat cooled by her misfortunes, she permitted herself to be once more wooed and won, this time by an artisan named John Trevecca.

In less than a year she presented Trevecca also with a daughter, but this time she died during her accouchement, and the infant with her, and was buried in Nanticoke, exactly as Roger Hews reported. This event it must have been which reached the ears of Andrew Meelen, denuded of the one vital fact that Minna had married again and that his own child still lived.

To the day of her death John Trevecca supposed she had been really a widow when she married him—as, of course, did Minna herself. The only deception she had practiced consisted in the concealment of her true name.

When Minna died, John Trevecca cherished her first-born, the little Eunice, as his own, bringing her up under his name, giving her a good education, even sending her to a country seminary for a couple of terms; then, in turn, he moved away, and no one in Nanticoke heard of him for many years.

So much of the past Roger Hews had discovered when he returned to San Francisco to report to Mr. Carboy. We have seen how he suppressed the essential facts, completely misleading the astute lawyer. When he went east for good it was with the idea of tracing John Trevecca and his stepdaughter. He hoped that the girl still lived, and that, fortified with proofs of the foregoing facts, he could eventually produce her as the rightful heir to the millions of old Andrew Meelen—for that she was his legitimate daughter, born in lawful wedlock, no one would be able to gainsay, in the face of the evidence he could produce.

In one of two or three ways Hews proposed to turn this valuable secret to his own profit: If the girl were alive and unmarried and in humble circumstances, he would try to make her his wife and divulge the truth afterwards; in which case Roger Hews would have somewhat to say concerning the spending and scattering of old Andrew's hoarded wealth. If the girl were already wedded to another, then he hoped to find his account by selling her and her husband the story on the best terms possible. Thirdly, if neither of these things were the case, then he could find a market for his wares with Wilfrid Stennis, who might be expected to pay handsomely for the suppression of the secret, thus insuring to himself a clear title to the property.

It was a clear case of "heads I win, tails you lose!" So far as he could see, only one contingency could defeat the major plot—the daughter of Minna and Andrew Meelen might be dead.

Meantime, he had no objection whatever to letting a wrongful heir enter into possession. The information he possessed would have a sure and certain market value in any case.

It took Roger Hews three or four months to trace the migrations of John Trevecca, covering, as they did, a period of ten or twelve years. But run him to earth at last he did, and found to his joy that Eunice was very much alive, and well worth winning for her own sake. But one other thing was not so much to his liking—the discovery that Eunice and the man in possession had been friends for years, and were even then supposed to be engaged lovers. This was an adverse conjunction which the astute mind could not have imagined or foreseen—indeed, it was of a piece with all the other strange factors in the case.

However, Roger Hews was content to play a waiting game. He was very careful to keep out of Wilfrid's way, but he lost no time in making the acquaintance of Eunice and her stepfather, and at the time of Wilfrid's departure for Europe Roger had been for some months on terms of easy acquaintance with both of them. He attended the same church as Eunice, he joined the war club and the lodge to which Trevecca belonged, and among the decent denizens of Macdonald street passed as a writer, a character which was not belied by appearances, owing to his quiet, steady demeanor and his careful acting and dressing of the part.

Nor did it take Hews long to discover that there was a little rift in the lute between Eunice and Wilfrid. This exactly suited his book. Perhaps a less observant person could have foretold such an outcome of their odd romance. Anyway, this was Roger's opportunity. As Wilfrid's visits became fewer, and the coast more clear, the other took to dropping in at an evening, ostensibly to see John Trevecca; or he would contrive to meet Eunice at church and prayer-meeting and walk home with her. He even escorted her to the park, to the theater, and to some popular concerts.

Never by word or look or action did he hint of any knowledge of her acquaintance with Wilfrid Stennis. She, on her part, from motives of pride and delicacy forbore to allow Stennis' name to pass her lips; old John Trevecca was naturally close-mouthed about his own or his daughter's affairs. So it was a three-cornered game.

At no time is the average woman supposed to be mere approachable to a determined wooer than when she has been deserted or deems herself forsaken by another man. In proportion as the wound is deep, so is the healing process possibly hastened if there be a sure and certain consolation at hand. But Eunice Trevecca was not an average woman; her heart did not always rule her head.

When nearly a year had passed without so much as a line from Wilfrid, Eunice deemed herself indeed forgotten. What she had feared and foreseen, she told herself, was come to pass; and "that woman," as she termed Clara Passavant in her thoughts, had probably won him away from his early affection by her wiles and her brilliant social attainments.

"I suppose we are not in his class any longer," she said to herself bitterly. "But she will never make him happy; all she cares about is the money."

She did not, nor would not, blame Wilfrid; it was all "that woman's" evil doings. Yet she tried her best to think of him as dead to her, and to face the fact that henceforth she must piece out her life alone. But it was a sorry attempt.

Eunice had not been a woman had she failed to see the drift of Master Roger's coming and goings. Her was too sweet a nature not to feel honored by what she supposed was the unselfish admiration of a passably good man. He had apparently succeeded in ingratiating himself with her stepfather, and his companionship proved a rather welcome diversion in those dark days. But she knew his love-quest was hopeless, and discouraged his more marked attentions, for she told herself her heart was dead.

So when Roger Hews pressed his suit—he never made love to her as Wilfrid had done—she was ready with her answer.

"It cannot be, Mr. Hews," she said, as they stood in the dim old parlor. "I esteem and admire you as a friend, but—I shall never marry."

"Perhaps I have been too hasty," said Roger suavely. "In time, possibly, you will like me better. Let me still be your friend and comrade. I will not recur to this without your permission, but some day I shall ask you again."

She shook her head in token that his was a forlorn hope, but she was too kind-hearted to inflict a hurt where she could avoid it.

"On these conditions, then," she said, "we may still be friends; but I shall never change my mind."

"Curse upstart!" Hews muttered when he found himself on the wrong side of the door. "She loves him still! I wish he would get married himself; then, my lady, perhaps you'd sing another song!"

CHAPTER VII.

Jaded and surfeited, ready to cry "Vanity of vanities, all is vanity," Wilfrid Stennis returned to his native land after two years of kaleidoscopic experiences in the chief capitals of the Old World. He had plunged into the vortex of "life," only to be flung out of the vortex and whirl on a spent swimmer in a speckled breaker.

Into these two years he greedily crowded together enough vicissitudes to last another and better-seasoned mind and body a decade at least. Perhaps his almost total lack of previous social training and preparation led the sooner to inevitable satiety; it was like a starveling gorging himself on a 12-course dinner of highly spiced and seasoned viands.

Certain it is that his one over-mastering desire last took the form of an acute nostalgia—a longing to get away from glittering generalities and sabbatical luxury and settle down somewhere to a life of plain and polished ease.

So he left the Kestrel to follow at leisure—the original yachting party was disbanded long since—and came home by the Oregon on one of the last trips of that doomed greyhound of the ocean.

In appearance Stennis was not much changed, save for a little more fullness of face and figure, a rather tired look about the eyes, and what was more noticeable—just a suspicion of grayness in the hair around the temples. And this at 30! In manner he had certainly improved; you would have at once set him down as a well-trained and well-groomed man of the world.

An intense and overweening craving for simpler manners and hemlock fare led his steps straight from the pier to the little house in Macdonald street, around which were clustered for the pleasantest memories he had ever known.

Eunice was at home, and herself opened the door, so no retreat, no denial, was possible.

"Why!—Mr. Stennis!" she cried in genuinely astonished accents. In the total surprise of the moment it was all she could find to say.

As he stepped across the threshold his gaze sought hers, but in the act of shaking hands—apparently a merely perfunctory ceremony on the girl's part—her eyes were veiled, and the sole token of emotion she betrayed was a little tell-tale red signal-flare in her usually olive-pale cheeks.

"Have you no word of welcome for me, Eunice?" said Wilfrid reproachfully.

"Surely!" was the answer. "We—I am glad to see you back safe and sound and looking so well. When did you arrive?"

"Scarcely an hour ago. I came straight here."

During the voyage across Wilfrid had in divers ways pictured to himself this meeting. There was to be a sort of killing of the fatted calf, although in no sense did he regard himself as enacting the role of the prodigal—he had been made too much of while abroad for that. And though he knew in his heart of hearts that he had probably forfeited all right thereto, in fancy he had dwelt with an inward glow over the glad greeting which Eunice was to extend; he had even pictured to himself in a hazy way her flinging herself into his arms and with tear-wet cheeks taking him to herself again. But this common-place, every-day "How-do-do, Mr. Stennis!" and the total absence of emotion, grave or gay, cool or ardent, was like passing at one step from the sunshine of the plains of Lombardy to the ice-crowned slopes of the Alpine summits beyond.

After the Rate.

As a country Germany has lower rates than any other in the world. This is due to the interest taken by the government in their destruction. If a boy applies to the mayor of a town he is furnished with traps and paid half a cent for every skin he brings. In large towns there are 140 boys at work all the time. The cost of traps and bait makes each skin cost the government about a penny, but as every rat destroys five dollars worth a year, this makes a tremendous saving.

The mice, though destructive, are not looked after by the government. It is expected that every household will protect itself. However, a reward of a penny is paid for every three skins.

Another Idea.

"Charles, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "I want you to stop at the market and get some egg plant."

"But I don't like it."

"No, but you like eggs. I want to feed it to the hens."

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

Punishing Wife Deserters in Nation's Capital

WASHINGTON.—Experience under the family desecration and non-support law in Washington has proved that it is possible to bring deserting husbands to time and make them support their families, however much they may want to skip out and leave wives and children to shift for themselves.

Punishment in itself profits nobody. The law aims not to punish but to secure support. The man decides whether he will work in confinement or out of it, and Judge William H. De Lacy of the juvenile court sees that he does work in one way if he will not in the other.

When a man brought up for non-support promises to furnish it he is put on probation, and ordered to pay a specified amount of his wages each Saturday night at the police station nearest his home. The sergeant turns the money over to the juvenile court, and then the wife gets it in full on Monday morning, her pay day.

The money is pretty safe here, and the plan heads off many a Saturday night spree. The man is kept at work, which is a mighty good thing of itself, and the family is kept together.

Men who are not willing to furnish support under this arrangement and those who default in payment or desert a second time are promptly sent to the workhouse. There they are made up into gangs and put to work in Rock Creek park, where Mr. Roosevelt when president used to take his afternoon gallop. They have a hard day's work in the open air, with good food, and for this the law requires the government to pay 50 cents a day to the wives, as for any government employee. The work in the park would cost $1.50 a day if not done by prisoners, so one dollar is left to pay for boarding and guarding the men, after the wages have been taken out. Congress appropriates $2,000 a year for this purpose.

Judge DeLacy's execution of the law is effective because it is certain. Family desertion is a misdemeanor or a felony in almost every state and is punishable with hard labor in many. But to punish the man in jail the judge must also punish his wife and children by cutting off his wages.

Several times recently, when the name of the American president-sportsman has been mentioned, I have been asked: "You've heard the dog story, of course?" says Joe Mitchell Chapple in the National magazine.

"I like to hear all the variations on dog stories, so I asked, 'Which dog story?'"

"That one, you know, that 'Buffalo Bill' tells about Roosevelt hunting bears in Colorado. It seems that he hired a man and a dog, but neither seemed to be very successful in getting him the desired bear. At last he lost patience and inquired: 'Isn't there a good dog to be had in this country?'"

"Oh, yes—Smith down below here has the best bear dog in the mountains."

"Well, go down and get him," urged the presidential hunter. "Let's see if we can't have some sport with a bear."

"Smith won't hire his dog."

"Tell Smith to come along and join the party for hire or on any terms he likes." The story runs that the guide departed and returned with a report of non-success. Mr. Roosevelt's impatience took on a tinge of vexation, and he went himself to secure the adamant Smith and his valuable dog.

"This is Mr. Smith. I understand you have a fine bear dog, Mr. Smith?"

"None better in the Rockies," was the assurance.

"Can't I hire him or buy him?"

"He ain't for hire and I wouldn't sell that dog for no price you could offer."

"Well, won't you come with the dog—allow me to hire both you and the dog?"

"No, I ain't hirin' out now. I got to go after bacon and flour and some more things my folks wants for the house."

"Report has it that President Roosevelt felt a trifle nettled at the man's obstinacy."

"Look here, he said, 'do you know who I am?'"

"No, I don't know—what's the odds?"

"I am Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States. A pause to await the desired effect and yielding."

"Smith dexterously deposited some tobacco juice on the ground just beyond the president's nearest hunting boot."

"Well," he said, slowly, "I don't care if you are Booker T. Washington, you can't hire my dog."

"And all the little innocent bears went to bed happy that night, glad they had escaped Smith's dog."

Senator "Chair" Calls Himself to Order

ator Bacon was going to speak, was engaged in conversation with his colleagues. Senator Kean of New Jersey was also talking to Senator Warren of Wyoming. Senator Bacon wanted to get the attention of the senator from Vermont before speaking on his bill, and hesitated a moment, which Senator Curtis took as a sign for him to get busy. So he began pounding that little marble cube until the senate chamber fairly rang. By the time he had worn off a little sharp edge the senator from Vermont sat up and took notice, and Senator Kean of New Jersey woke up and returned to his seat.

Finally Senator Bacon, who was getting pretty hot under the collar and pretty red in the neck and face, managed to make his voice heard. "Mr. President," he said, "I did not seek the attention of the senator from New Jersey. When you had secured the attention of the senator from Vermont I was satisfied and was ready to proceed, but you kept on banging the gavel so that it was impossible for me to begin. I now yield the floor."

Senator Curtis, who is nothing if not polite, with a merry twinkle in his black eyes, apologized for his undue exertions with the ivory cube, and said: "The chair will now come to order. The senator from Georgia is recognized."

Senator Bacon of Georgia, grave, dignified and somewhat dictatorial, was trying to address the senate, Senator Dillingham of Vermont, who had the bill in charge upon which Senators were ousted with a great deal of difficulty.

The feathered cloud went astray, probably through the miscalculation of the leaders, and when a few of them, flying too low, went in the direction of the hotel windows, the rest followed, like a flock of misguided sheep. Pell-mell they struck against the roof and upper windows, and where the windows were open, in they flew and round and round the rooms. But the aeroplane landing on the Willard is not in commission yet and the hotel management objected strenuously to any attempt of guests to enter by means of the roof.

Accordingly, a corps of hotel employees, including all the volunteers who could be pressed into service, made for the upper chambers of the hostelry and swished and switched the winged visitors out of doors, some dead and some alive.

CORN PLANTING IS OVER

THAT CANADIAN TRIP SHOULD NOW BE TAKEN.

If you had intended going to Canada for the purpose of purchasing land on which to establish a home and accompanying some land company, whose holdings you proposed to look over or to go up on your own account to select one hundred and sixty acres of land free, you should delay no longer. Corn-planting is over, your wheat crop is well ahead, and you have a few weeks' time before you are required in the fields again. Now make your intended trip. Reports at hand show that the crop prospects in Canada were never better than they are today. The cool weather has not affected the crop, but if anything, it has been a benefit. There has been plenty of moisture and those who have had their land properly prepared look upon this year as likely to be one of the best they have had. A great many are going up this season who expect to pay two or three dollars an acre more than they were asked to pay last year. Others who wish to homestead are prepared to go farther from the line of railway than would have been necessary last year. Still it is worth it. So it will be with you. Next year lands will be higher-priced and homesteads less accessible. There is a wonderful tide of immigration to Central Canada now. It is expected that one hundred and fifty thousand new settlers from the United States will be numbered by the end of the present year, an increase of fifty per cent over last year. In addition to this there will be upwards of one hundred thousand from the old country, which does not include those who may come from the northern countries of the Continent. These all intend to settle upon the land. The reader does not require an answer to the questions, "Why do they do it?" "Why are they going there in such large numbers?" Western Canada is no longer an experiment. The fact that one hundred and fifty million bushels of wheat were raised there last year as against ninety-five millions the year previous, shows that the tiller of the soil in Central Canada is making money and it is safe to say that he is making more money than can be made anywhere else on the Continent in the growing of grains. He gets good prices, he has a sure and a heavy crop, he enjoys splendid railway privileges, and he has also the advantages of schools and churches and such other social life as may be found anywhere. It is difficult to say what district is the best. Some are preferred to others because there are friends already established. The Grand Trunk Pacific, on its way across the Continent, is opening up a splendid tract of land, which is being taken up rapidly. The other railways—the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern are extending branch lines into parts inaccessible a couple of years ago. With a perfect network of railways covering a large area of the agricultural lands it is not difficult to secure a location. Any agent of the Canadian Government will be pleased to render you assistance by advice and suggestion, and a good plan is to write or call upon him. The Government has located these agents at convenient points throughout the States, and their offices are well equipped with a full supply of maps and literature.

JUNGLE AMENITIES.

Elephant—Say, Hippo, close that submarine opening of yours or the water will rush in and sink you.

Hippopotamus—Oh, lock up your trunk and put a strap round it if you don't want to have it busted.

ROUTT COUNTY, COLORADO, LAND BOOM PREDICTED.

Keen observers predict a big boom in property in Wantland, Colorado, the new town which is being built in the center of the Little Snake River Valley in Routt County, Colorado. A big irrigation system is being built to irrigate 60,000 acres of very fine land surrounding Wantland. The land is being sold by the State of Colorado for 50 cents per acre, under the Carey Act, and water rights cost $35.00 an acre, in ten year payments. Sugar factories, flour mills, canneries, etc., are among the possible industries to be located at Wantland. Full information can be obtained from the Routt County Colonization Company, 1734 Wellton St., Denver, Colo.

"From the Lakes to the Gulf" sounds like a song that has been sung to death.

The lawyers for Lee O'Neil Brown have had some free advertising anyway.

The great prize fight is not to be in California. The white and the black will be divorced at Reno.

Talk about a busy fight. There is going to be one for County Clerk with five candidates in the field.

Lorimer still seems to be a live one. He had a bunch of appointees O. K'd. by President Taft the other day.

If Waukegan gets through this carnival without a few moral jolts it will be luck for every one concerned.

The Senagambian in the woodpile is easy to locate compared with the fellow in the coal heap down in Chicago.

With Congress out of the way Lake County citizens can now devote their undivided attention to the county ticket.

We wonder if the Tribune is going to be able to make Fox Lake morals a thrill that will reach way down to Cairo.

Gov. Deneen's tears come in jolly good in this dry spell. Corn in Sangamon county is going to beat anything in the state.

Why lose our hold on things that make for good merely because a few cheap Democrats have hollered for "presents?"

The Socialists are now going after Chicago. How would Fred Busse like to divide up that Fox Lake estate of his to get one more throw at the mayorship?

Running for office in Lake County is like a summer's dream. Everybody wins until the fall—September—when the primary votes are counted. Then the dream is over.

The Price family of baking powder fame have quit Waukegan and will live elsewhere. We still have hopes that our sister by the lake will keep on raising just the same.

President "Bill" Taft with all the little bills he has pulled through Congress is rightly named. The croakers will now have to put more sand in their gearings if their noise is to be heard.

McLean County of which Bloomington is the large city shows according to the new Federal census an increase of only two per cent in population in ten years. Watch Lake County put this to the mat.

Congress has adjourned, and from all indications your Uncle Joe Cannon was still Speaker up to the finish. Those people who thought they were going to lose him may have to wait for old Father Time with his sythe.

And now the Congressmen come home to meet their constituents. The chap who has not done anything is going to have the easiest time explaining but the hardest time getting back. Howard Snapp seems to fit in here to a T.

State Representative Johnson Lawrence over in Ogle county is having more excitement than anybody dodging subpoenas. If we remember rightly this is the same Johnson Lawrence who while posing as a prohibitionist a few years ago was caught drinking whiskey in a drug store.

It's a serious business to joke about graft with the dog days almost upon us. The mayor of Freeport in an idle moment among friends the other day, said that he was next to everything that had been doing. Twenty-four hours later Burke had him down at Springfield. Now he doesn't know so much but is wiser. Strange.

Isn't it nearly time that some good Republican from the northern tier of counties gets on the State ticket? We have material up here for treasurers, secretaries of state and all that kind of a thing. We have in mind one particular man who would make a Governor that the whole state might be proud of. We could spit over into the county in which he lives.

A Wise Idea

The milk commission seems to be the most conspicuous state function to occupy the public eye just now. The country outside of Chicago is looking to Chairman Shurtleff with a feeling of confidence that justice will be done. His proposition, made in a late speech that the state should make the regulations to protect the consumer and not the municipalities, strikes us as a wise one. There ought to be universal requirements that comprehend the whole state and then the dairymen will know just where he is at. This idea of allowing Chicago to have one code and Podunk or some other place in the state another puts everything at sixes and sevens with the milk producer. When he sells to Chicago he has got to do one thing or more likely forty; when he sells to Podunk or some other place he may have to do forty more different things. This kind of a stunt might keep him busy half of the time reading various and unending city ordinances while the other half of his time would be put in in changing and re-changing his cow barns. Under these conditions there is left mighty little time to milk. But Shurtleff seems to have a way out if his suggestion is adopted at the next session of the State Legislature. If he is at Springfield at the time, and we believe he will be, he will see that it is done.

From Up a Tree

Is Waukegan a hog?

That is a question that has occurred to more than one man in Lake county in the years that have gone before and the year that is now with us.

This is a matter of candidates—a matter of political plums.

Let us sit down together and talk it quietly over.

Waukegan is not the whole county, not even half of it by a long ways and yet what do we get, the rest of us who don't live in Waukegan. Look over the names of the men who have held office for the last ten years, look over the list of candidates for office in the present year of our Lord 1910, and what do you find? Why, instead of Waukegan being in on about a third as she is entitled to we discover that the people over there had and are now demanding again more than half of everything in sight.

While we respect Waukegan and are proud of being able to call her our county seat, for they are live ones and progressive ones, those neighbors of ours over by the lake, yet we in the western half of the county are certainly becoming tired of paying bounty, and we believe we are speaking for all the rest, for the privilege of admiring her.

Not that the News is not going to support candidates who are of merit and are worthy, merely because they are Waukeganites, but the News is going to take this position; that when it is an equal break between a Waukegan candidate and a candidate from outside, as far as qualifications are concerned, the fellow from the outside is going to get our approval every time.

Over in Boone, over in Stephenson with cities as county seats, even over in Winnebago where Rockford is two-thirds of the population, the county outside is in at least a half on a division of the plums.

Let us Lake county Republicans who don't live in a county seat profit by these examples.

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose. Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root. Home of Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

NECESSITY OF HAVING SANITARY COW STALLS

Dairymen Awakening to Subject to Meet Demands for Pure Milk and Its Products—Inexpensive and Easy to Make.

The Model Stall.

(By C. A. OCOCK, University of Wisconsin, Agricultural Experiment Station.)

The demand for pure milk, produced under sanitary conditions, is constantly increasing, and to produce such milk it is necessary to have clean cows kept in sanitary stalls. That dairymen of the state are realizing the wisdom of constructing sanitary stalls is shown by the many inquiries for information on this subject. This awakening among the dairymen is in part an outcome of the pure food laws which have been enacted to meet the demand for pure milk and its products.

Sanitary cow stalls should contain sanitary fastenings for securing the cows, but this does not necessarily imply that such fastenings need be patented. There seems to be a prevailing impression among dairymen that a comfortable sanitary stall or stanchion is an expensive factory product, while the fact is that any farmer who is handy with carpenter's tools can build a stall which will secure as good results as any patented stall upon the market. The stalls described in this bulletin embody in their construction all of the principles found in any of the patented stalls and the dairymen may easily choose a stall among these types which will meet the needs of the average dairy.

The average dairymen of 20 years ago gave the sanitary stall little consideration and used any method of building which best suited his individual ideas. He cared little about the condition of the cow at milking time so long as she gave the milk. The most of the old dairy barns are so arranged that it is impossible to keep cows clean in them.

The Model stall is a home made product and was originated by ex-Gov. W. D. Hoard. He has used this stall in his own stables for several years and finds it very satisfactory. It is probably the nearest approach to a perfect stall of any in use at the present time. It is constructed, as shown in illustration, so as to force the cow to have her hind feet between the crossbar and gutter when standing, thus preventing the fouling of the stall by her own droppings. When lying down she is brought forward and compelled to lie in front of the crossbar. The cow is forced to stand back from the hay rack when eating because of the position in which it is hung. The crossbar is adjustable and the stall will accommodate a large or small cow. The chain or fastening is so arranged that as the cow starts to lie down she is drawn forward and will step in front of this crossbar to prevent an uncomfortable position. The door in front is hinged at the top and opens upward when grain and water are given. Hay is placed in the hay rack from the front. The partitions are so constructed that it is almost impossible for a cow to step upon the under or top of one lying down next to her. This feature alone is worth the cost of several stalls to the owner of valuable individuals.

A wooden mat is laid over the concrete floor. This mat is removable, permitting the cleansing of the entire floor whenever occasion demands. If it seems desirable the manger may be constructed of concrete the same as the floor and where now stalls are being erected the manger and floors should be made at the same time. This construction will be more durable than separate construction.

RECORD-MAKING JERSEY COW

At the New Jersey experiment station the dairy herd is composed of strictly business animals. Both grades and pure-bred animals are kept, the basis of their membership in the herd being production rather than genealogy. The cow shown herewith is Manda King 2d, No. 184023, says American Agriculturist. She is a pure-bred Jersey. During 10 months in 1908 she yielded 10,308 pounds of milk containing 573 pounds of butter. During six months and 24 days in 1909 she yielded 8,249 pounds of milk containing 468 pounds of butter.

MUCH DANGER IN PASTURING

When Desired to Turn Mare and Colt on Grass It Should Be Done Gradually, as Sudden Change Is Dangerous.

(By W. J. LLOYD.)

When the mare has been kept at work up to a short time before foaling, and has been fed a grain ration, and then after foaling is turned out to pasture with her foal, it is safe to say the foal's death warrant is signed.

Mares that have been worked moderately up to the time they are due to foal are quite certain to have good husky foals, and after the foals have got a good start on the dam's milk that has been formed from rich grain food, all goes well until she is turned out on grass.

Then the composition of the milk is changed and the grass milk is like so much poison to the colt, its bowels become loose, and he sucks more and more, until at last he has the scours and dies.

The result is not caused by eating poison grasses or weeds, but by the sudden change in the composition of the mare's milk due to a change in her food.

When it is desired to turn the mare and colt out to grass, get them accustomed to the change gradually.

When the mare is allowed to run in the pasture at night and fed a full grain ration she may safely be turned out to grass with her foal, but her grain food must be continued to insure good results.

I believe that it pays to feed the mare and her foal a little grain food every day, although very few follow this practice.

BANDITS ROB TRAIN

THREE MEN PILLAGE EVERY PASSENGER AND MAKE THEIR ESCAPE.

EXPRESS SAFE IS LOOTED

One Woman Has Pair of Diamond Rings Torn From Her Ears by Desperado—Many Shots Fired.

Ogden, Utah.—Three masked bandits held up the second section of Oregon Short Line train No. 1, north-bound, which left Ogden at 1:30 a. m. Monday at Second street, in the northern part of the city.

All of the 100 passengers in the train were relieved of their valuables and the express messenger was compelled to deliver over the contents of his safe. The exact amount the robbers obtained has not been learned.

Two passengers and two trainmen were injured. The robbers stopped the train by placing railroad torpedoes on the track. When the engineer brought the train to a standstill, the head brakeman went forward to ascertain the cause of the delay and was struck with a revolver by one of the robbers.

He was taken at the point of a gun to the express car and compelled to call to the messenger to open the door. As soon as the door was opened, one of the bandits crawled in and commanded the messenger to open the safe.

After rifling the safe the robbers turned their attention to the coaches. Rear brakeman N. B. Franklin was met as he was on his way forward. The bandits commanded him to halt, but he disregarded the order and two shots were fired at him.

Franklin fell into a ditch, where he lay unconscious. After seeing that he was not watched he jumped up and ran three blocks to the home of Deputy Sheriff John Hutchens, whom he aroused and informed of the robbery. The deputy hurried to the scene, arriving just as the train pulled out for the north.

The train robbers went through each coach with a deliberation and calmness that showed they were not novices at the game.

While one of the desperadoes stood guard over Engineer Kirkwood, the other two, with revolvers drawn, went through the train ordering each passenger to hand over his valuables.

One woman, Mrs. J. H. Ball, was relieved of a pair of diamond earrings, which were torn from her ears. A forger whose name was not learned was attacked by the robbers. The man did not understand what was going on and was beaten with the butt of a revolver.

After the train had been robbed the bandits fired a fusillade of shots in the air to terrorize the passengers, got into a buggy and drove away.

TAFT'S SON RUNS DOWN MAN

Laborer is Probably Fatally Injured When Hit by Auto Driven by Youth.

Beverly, Mass.—One of President Taft's automobiles, driven by his son, Robert T. Taft, ran over and seriously injured a street laborer.

At the hospital it was said there were indications that the workman's skull was fractured.

Robert, with two college friends, Lendall King of Minneapolis, and George Harrison of Washington, started out from the summer White House for a spin along the Massachusetts north shore.

Robert, who has been driving the automobiles about the city considerably since his arrival last week, was at the steering wheel.

At Hyde's crossing, about two miles from home, the streets were being oiled by a gang of men. The automobile was slowed down. The horn sounded and most of the men stepped aside.

One of them, however, was not quite quick enough, and the machine struck him, tossing him into the gutter. He was unconscious when picked up by young Taft and his two friends.

DESPERADO SHOT BY MILITIA

Man Barred in His Georgia Home With Six Children Laid Low With Bullets.

Atlanta, Ga.—After being barricaded in his house for many hours and killing two of his besiegers, W. T. Bostwick was killed by soldiers in a rush on his house near Irvinville, Ga. His six children were taken unhurt. Threats were made to burn Bostwick out of his house, but when it was seen that it could accomplish nothing that way the posse began firing. The military company came from Fitzgerald and went to the scene of the battle.

Storm Makes Many Homeless. Whitesburg, Ky.—As the result of the worst storm which has ever visited southeastern Kentucky, over a hundred people were Monday rendered homeless and when a full report is made of the storm it is feared that several persons have lost their lives. In the flood, The middle fork of Beaver creek overflowed its banks following the storm and swept away more than a score of homes of the farmers living along its banks. The loss is estimated will run into millions of dollars.

SKIN HUMOR 25 YEARS

"Cuticura did wonders for me. For twenty-five years I suffered agony from a terrible humor, completely covering my head, neck and shoulders, so even to my wife, I became an object of dread. At large expense I consulted the most able doctors far and near. Their treatment was of no avail, nor was that of the Hospital, during six months' efforts. I suffered on and concluded there was no help for me this side of the grave. Then I heard of some one who had been cured by Cuticura Remedies and thought that a trial could do no harm. In a surprisingly short time I was completely cured." S. P. Keyes, 147 Congress St., Boston, Mass., Oct. 12, '09.

Face Covered with Pimples

"I congratulate Cuticura upon my speedy recovery from pimples which covered my face. I used Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent for ten days and my face cleared and I am perfectly well. I had tried doctors for several months but got no results. Wm. J. Sadler, 1614 Susquehanna Ave., Philadelphia, May 1, 1909."

Coming in Relays.

Twins were born to Mrs. O'Brien. When the first one was born the nurse called Jimmy and said:

"Tell your aunt to come right over. The stork has brought you a little brother."

The aunt could not come over immediately. In a half hour the nurse called Jimmy again and said:

"Run over and tell auntie the stork has brought you another brother."

Jimmy ran to his aunt's house and said:

"Auntie, the stork has brought another brother. I wonder how many he will bring before night."

From the Greek.

It is said of the inhabitants of Insus off Caria that when a certain harper was performing the people who were listening heard the bell for the opening of the fish market, and rushed off with the exception of one man who was a little deaf. The harper, coming up, addressed him thus: "My good sir, I am much flattered by your staying to hear me when all the rest ran off at the sound of a bell." "What?" said he, "has the fish-bell rung? Then I'm off too. Good-by."—Strabo.

Hard Task, Indeed!

THIRD OPERATION PREVENTED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I want to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. It was so sick that two of the best doctors in Chicago said I would die if I did not have an operation. I had already had two operations, and they wanted me to go through a third one. I suffered day and night from inflammation and a small tumor, and never thought of seeing a well day again. A friend told me how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her, and I tried it, and after the third bottle was cured."—Mrs. ALYSSA SPERLING, 1408 Clybourne Ave., Chicago, Ill.

If you are ill do not drag along at home or in your place of employment until an operation is necessary, but build up the cause of those distressing aches and pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

St. Veronica's Handkerchief.
"The Handkerchief of Saint Veronica" created a sensation as a plethoric phenomenon, the Saviour's eyes appearing to open and close. It was palated by Gabriel Max, a German historical palater of the Munich school, in 1874.

A Woman's Great Idea
is how to make herself attractive. But without health, it is hard for her to be lovely in face, form or temper. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation and kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and wretched complexion. But electric bitters always prove a god-send to women who want health, beauty and friends. They regulate stomach, liver and kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion good health. Try them. 50c. at J. H. Swans.

BRISTOL

F. O. Eddy of Zion City, spent Sunday with his parents.

Mrs. C. J. Lavey and children spent Saturday with her mother at Pleasant Prairie.

Miss Marion Keogh of Milwaukee, called on friends here Tuesday and Wednesday.

Wm. Lehans and daughter May spent from Saturday till Tuesday with Munster friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Rowbottom are spending a week at J. A. Rowbottom's cottage at Twin Lakes.

F. R. Lavey has exchanged his two-passenger Ford car for a five-passenger car of the same make.

Raymond Bishop and William and Frank Hartwig were over Sunday visitors at their respective homes.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hollister, June 24th, a boy. Both mother and son are getting along nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Gaines of Sheboygan, were calling on relatives and friends here in their auto several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gardner of Chicago, are spending their vacation at G. A. Shields'. We are pleased to see Mr. Shields able to ride out again.

Chas. Rice was out from Chicago a couple of days last week looking after the interests of his new farm recently purchased of John Hunt.

J. E. Dixon has rented the old settlers grounds at Paddock's lake for the summer. He has already moved the family out there and is ready to serve all in his line of ices, etc.

Miss Brooks, who has been visiting at Mrs. C. B. Gaines and other relatives, returned to Grand Junction, Col., last Monday. H. B. Gaines accompanied her as far as Chicago.

The last heard of Mrs. Wm. Foulke, who is on a sight-seeing tour with her sister, Miss Jessie Shumway, of Chicago, they were taking in Niagara Falls, Buffalo and Toronto. They expect to go to the coast and take a two days' trip on the ocean, returning via Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Albert Krahn fell and received serious injuries on Monday last while attempting to hang up some clothing. Using a chair to stand on, in some manner she lost her balance and fell. She was unconscious for a time, but by the timely assistance of Dr. Stevens she was brought to and is getting along as well as could be expected.

Gives It Another Aspect.
Enthusiasm often dwindles considerably when we try to convert it into hard cash.

Kept The King At Home.

"For the past year have kept the King of all laxatives—Dr. King's New Life Pills—in our home and they have proved a blessing to our family," writes Paul Mathulka, of Buffalo, N. Y. Easy, but sure remedy for all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Only 25c. at J. H. Swans.

A Dreadful Wound

from a knife, gun, tin can, rusty nail, fireworks, or of any other nature, demands prompt treatment with Bucklen's Arnica's Salve to prevent blood poison or gangrene. It's the quickest, surest healer for all such wounds as also for burns, boils sores, skin eruptions, eczema, chapped hands, corns or piles. 25c. at J. H. Swans.

Growing Old.

"I don't believe she is as young as she claims to be." "Of course she isn't. Didn't you hear her confess a moment ago that she could very well remember when everybody was crazy about Omar Khayyam?"

THOMAS F. BURNS

Candidate for Minority Representative in the General Assembly

HIS PLATFORM

"I favor the economical expenditure of public monies and the immediate abolition of old time extravagant methods. I favor laws that will be beneficial for the farmers, dairymen and stock-raisers of this great commonwealth, the municipal control of gas, electric and water systems, the establishment of good roads and an economical system of expenditure for their permanent maintenance, convict labor to be used as far as possible. I favor the passage of laws that protect the members of fraternal insurance organization, against the encroachments of powerful old line insurance companies. In am opposed to any deep waterway legislation by this state until such time as the Federal Government assures its financial support of the project. I am for the rigid enforcement of laws governing the practice of medicine and surgery, and the enactment of such laws as will protect the people against unscrupulous practitioners. I believe there should be just and equitable measures of protection to employer and employee, the conservation of all our national resources, the encouragement, support and advancement of all our public, educational and charitable institutions, in order that they may be placed on the highest plane of efficiency."

Built Nest of Clothespins.

A remarkable discovery was made by a chimney sweeper at Moffat, Dumfriesshire, England, while engaged in removing an obstruction in a chimney caused by a jackdaw's nest. Two hundred and fifty wooden clothespins were removed from the chimney, all of which had been utilized for the purpose of nest building.

Her Diaphragmatic Resistance.

The wonderful endurance power of women is evidenced again by the fact that a husky New York college man, who was rehearsing in a girl's part in a play, fell in a fit and remained unconscious for some time, and for no other reason that that he had been wearing a tightly laced corset for a couple of hours.

Why, of Course!

"Why is the delivery boy always in such a rush?" asked the idler in the grocery. "So that if in his haste he delivers anything wrong, he will have time to right the matter," the grocer explained.—Buffalo Express.

Think It Over.

"Tell me, sir, the secret of your success," the rich man was asked. "I always looked after things before they got by me," was the somewhat paradoxical answer.
